

How can you get involved?

GPIL is looking for new contributors:
Irrespective of whether you are a

- professor,
- doctoral researcher or
- student,

if you are interested in publishing a case study on a piece of German State practice in international law, please get in touch.

gpil.jura.uni-bonn.de/gpil_info@jura.uni-bonn.de

facebook.com/GermanPiIL/

twitter.com/StefanTalmon

A new resource for public international law
research:

GPIL – German Practice
in International Law

What does GPIL offer you?

Case studies

- GPIL publishes case studies on German State practice in the field of public international law.
- Each case study presents the German position on a particular question of public international law and puts that position in its wider factual and political context. Where applicable, it also records the reactions of other States and provides a legal assessment of the German position.
- Case studies are based on decisions by German courts, diplomatic notes, official government statements, answers to parliamentary questions, government reports, or statement before international organizations.

A new source

- GPIL covers the full spectrum of public international law ranging from air and space law to the use of force.
- All documents or extracts thereof not otherwise available in English are translated into English. In this manner GPIL hopes to provide non-German speaking scholars and practitioners with a ready source of current information on the views and practice of the Government of the Federal Republic of Germany in the field of public international law.
- The material is presented without hyperlinks or references. A fully referenced version of all entries will be published annually in book form.

